

Happy Day 2 of Week 2 Everyone!

As you continue to navigate teachers' websites, I hope you are finding the instructions and expectations doable. This way of learning is not my first choice and I am extremely tired by the end of the day (power naps are my dear friends 😊).

As we continue this week, a lot of what you are doing is on your own. I posted a few resources regarding OPCVL and thesis statements (which are due this evening by 11:59pm on Turnitin.com). I will also post a resource on outlines by tomorrow morning.

This is what I would expect your work time to “look” like this week:

Tuesday, 4/28: finish your thesis and submit to Turnitin.com

Wednesday, 4/29 & Thursday, 4/30: begin constructing your outline (remember the more detailed, the better for you when it is time to write your first draft).

Friday, 5/1: Meeting w/Ms. Boas via Zoom @ 2pm for a check-in and to answer any questions.

I have met, via Zoom, with a few students and it has been nice to talk through issues or “roadblocks” you are facing as you narrow down your topic and focus your research. Please do not hesitate to email me to set one up. Remember, you must invite at least one other person to our meeting as I cannot meet one-on-one.

I will continue to read and give feedback on thesis statements as they arrive. Contact me with any questions!

Take care,
Ms. Boas